

Cherrybark Oak

Quercus pagoda

Category: Deciduous

Growth Rate: Fast

Adaptability: Full sun

Shape: Rounded crown; dense

Size: 60-90'tall, 70' wide

Fall Color: Attractive, yellow fall colors

Wildlife Value: Host plant for multiple local butterflies

Description: Bark tends to be less rough and slightly resembles that of Black Cherry - it starts off smooth, then breaks into scaly ridges. Acorns attract wildlife. The Cherrybark Oak makes a wonderful shade tree and was formerly considered to be a subspecies of southern red oak.
